

The impact of extension activities in sensitizing students to social issues and holistic development

Extension activities tremendously impact the overall shaping of students. Social activities organized by NSS, Rotaract or Red Cross clubs enable students to encounter ground reality of various issues prevailing around and stimulate their thoughts in the direction of resolving them. They show their concern towards the prevailing problems. These activities offer students an exposure to the neighborhood, communities, personally sense the gravity of situation and a chance to try out implementing their proposed solutions firstly on small and then on large scale. They take it as their social responsibility to solve the issues and make the society better.

At the same time, activities related to art, literature and culture provide students with advantageous opportunities to explore their personal interests and develop them in best ways. This not only enhances the individual productivity of students but also elevates their ability to work in team. It also invigorates leadership qualities in students and renders them a new window to showcase their potential invoking in them a sense of responsibility.

Gaining all these qualities through extension activities, students step towards their holistic development and ultimately shape into awakened and sensible citizen of the society.
